Roughly 45 percent of the population – 133 million Americans – have at least one chronic illness

Note: We determined the placement of diseases or conditions in this figure by assessing the number of protocols available, adjusted for prevalence and total spending on that condition. For consumerization, we measured online presence and also adjusted for prevalence

The most general law in nature is equity-the principle of balance and symmetry which guides the growth of forms along the lines of the greatest structural efficiency.

I have been a trader of equities, options and commodities for over 25 years and more importantly a study of human psychology for just as long.

That aspect is at least as important if not more so than actual trading acumen.

A thorough self-taught education in the dynamics of groupthink and individual response has been crucial to my development as an integral member of a trading team.

Where I add value in working with Jake, a proxied member of my family, is in adding both trading skill, and more importantly focus.

A great trading desk must have an element of chaos to be truly effective.

The methodology of creating order from that chaos is what separates desks that succeed from those that fail.

That is my role. I create order and focus out of chaos. I make Jake better at what he does. I help him utilize his immense energy, talent and intelligence by funnelling that through a focused environment that exponentially magnifies the impact on returns. On his own, Jake is a tremendous asset. As a team, we are a force.
